

We are an integrated global defence and security company focused on delivering mission-led innovation. Our purpose is protecting lives by serving the national interests of our customers.

We employ more than 8,000 highly-skilled people, committed to creating new ways of testing technologies, systems and processes to make sure they meet operational needs; enabling customers to deploy new and enhanced capabilities with the assurance they will deliver the performance required. By leveraging our global reachback and world-leading research, we ensure the delivery of best-in-class solutions for our customers, optimised for Australian operational requirements.

We strive to create value in everything we do. We create high-value differentiated solutions, reducing risk in capability development and engineering across all Defence and Security domains.

QinetiQ is a trusted local industry partner to Defence under the Major Service Provider (MSP) contract. In conjunction with our consortium partners, we also provide embedded advisory services to Defence that enable the delivery of sovereign capabilities for Australia.
